

Episode 7 - Wake-up Call

Redemption Island - Night 15

Sash arrives on Redemption Island after being blindsided by Alina's hidden Immunity Idol. "Who's that?" Benry asks, as Sash approaches his shelter in the dark. "Your favorite tribe member," Sash tells him. "You know, for a second I was glad to see Sash until I realized I'd have to live with that weasel again," Benry expresses. "He's one of the most obnoxious, arrogant people I've met in my life, and...Alina definitely gets some mad props for getting the guy out," Benry continues in his confessional. "So how did you get here, Sash?" Benry asks him. "No comment," Sash smugly replies, still displaying an air of arrogance by refusing to answer any questions. "The only way I can figure is if Alina found the idol... unless somebody finally woke up," Benry continues. "Even though I'm on Redemption Island, this game is still being played," Sash begins in his confessional. He then continues to explain why it's important that he not give Benry any information about what happened at tonight's Tribal Council. "I would like to keep Benry in the dark as much as possible," he finishes.

Much to Benry's surprise, Wendy then arrives on Redemption Island, after just being voted out at Espada's Tribal Council. "Coming to Redemption Island, I was definitely a little apprehensive because I don't know Benry and Sash at all," Wendy narrates. "I don't know them from a hole in the wall but...I felt that we did have something in common because we've been kicked out by our tribes." "At least I have someone here to talk to," Benry tells her. "What was it? A double vote?" Benry asks. "He didn't tell you?" Wendy follows up. "We don't get along," Benry then says, referring to Sash. "Sash is giving me the silent treatment," Benry tells the camera. "It just shows what kind of a person he is and makes me want to beat him that much more."

La Flor Tribe ("Younger Tribe") - Night 15

As La Flor returns from Tribal Council after Sash was eliminated by the hidden Immunity Idol, the dust is settling from the emotions that ran high tonight. "That was a freakin' crazy Tribal," Shannon comments. "At Tribal Council, I didn't say nothin' cause I just voted to vote and eat, but...tonight, me, Brenda, and Shannon got the rug pulled out from under us," a furious NaOnka vents in her confessional. "Sash went to Redemption all because of Alina, but...with Kelly B. and Fabio, we still have the numbers, so...Alina just guaranteed hands-down that she's next to go. If it was 100% before, now it's 200% that...she's outta here!"

Espada Tribe ("Older Tribe") - Night 15

The Espada tribe returns from Tribal Council after Wendy was voted out. "Well... that was an easy one," Tyrone declares, not feeling bad about the vote. "I found it interesting that Wendy wrote my name down," Tyrone voices. "If we didn't click, fine, whatever, but...uh, I'm wondering if that vote was maybe encouraged by other members of the tribe." "She had to have known that I wasn't gonna get votes from you or Marty, so why even put my name down?" Tyrone says to Jimmy T. "I'm sure if she could've voted for Jill, she would've voted for Jill," Jimmy T. tries to reassure him. "Tyrone got a vote at Tribal Council and...it was obvious the vote came from Wendy, but...Tyrone is starting to become paranoid," Jimmy T. describes. "I don't know if the game's gettin' to him, or the Nicaraguan heat, but... I'm like, 'Buddy, it was one vote.'" Jimmy T. continues to assure him that he's fine and that Jill will be voted off if Espada loses again. "Well, we can't even say if," Tyrone corrects him. "Uh, we need the W." Jimmy T. says "We're gonna win," and Marty nods his head in agreement: "Tomorrow's gonna be Day 16, so...we're getting down to the nitty gritty, man," Marty tells the camera. "We've got only one more Tribal before we have to start voting people in our alliance, and...if we want any chance of going into the merge with even numbers, our only option is to win from here on out."

La Flor Tribe ("Younger Tribe") - Day 16

As the morning of Day 16 begins on La Flor, Alina reflects on the previous Tribal Council and her victory over Sash. "The hardest thing for me right now is that I'm here now, but if we lose again, I'd still be next," she continues. "But Sash was the glue that held them all together. I'm hoping with Sash gone, we see the end of the La Flor alliance, so...I'm just trying to lay low and not get sucked into Na's drama." Meanwhile, in the shelter, a depressed NaOnka is crying while Brenda comforts her. "It makes me so angry that she's here and not Sash," NaOnka complains. "Sash got voted off last night because of Alina," NaOnka reminds us. "The fact that I didn't explode and just lose it on Alina, like, I thought I took it really, really well...but I thought about it all night long," NaOnka continues in her confessional, "and...the reason I got emotional was cause I thought it was my fault." Continuing to have a meltdown, NaOnka blames herself for Sash's elimination. "It's my fault cause we would have voted for Kelly B.," NaOnka decides. "You had no way of knowing she had the idol," Brenda tells her. "Cause she lies like a damn rug," NaOnka then comments. "NaOnka's emotional right now," Brenda states in her confessional, "and I'm gonna be there to make her feel better because she is my alliance, but at the same time, I don't have time for it, you know, because we're still playing a game for a million dollars." Observing NaOnka and Brenda from the fire, Fabio shares his thoughts: "I think Sash getting blindsided was definitely a huge wake-up call for this tribe, man," Fabio tells the camera. "You can't get too secure in this game, and I think NaOnka thought she was really comfortable where she was and now she's just being a big baby." "He was playin' such a good game," NaOnka praises Sash to Brenda. "Like, if not for Alina, he probably would've been in the Final Three." "We have to get her out," NaOnka whines, through her tears. "I hate her!" "We still are gonna have all five votes," Brenda insists.

Redemption Island - Day 17

On Redemption Island, the castaways receive treemail informing them of the upcoming duel. "A three-way duel, huh?" Benry says aloud. In his confessional, Benry tells the camera that it's going to be a three-way duel, but he doesn't see any competition from Wendy or Sash and it should be a piece of cake. All three castaways then get ready for the duel. "Being here with two tribe members from the younger tribe, I don't know if I even have a shot, but...I'm gonna do my darndest to win," Wendy proclaims. "I'd like to show whoever comes from my tribe that there's more sides to me than just the crazy lady who talks to the chickens and maybe make 'em regret voting me off."

Redemption Island Arena - Day 17

Benry, Sash, and Wendy arrive at the Redemption Island arena to find Marty, Jane, Shannon, and Brenda in the audience. For the duel, each castaway will use their arms to brace themselves against two walls, while their bare feet are perched on very narrow footholds. Every fifteen minutes, they will move to a smaller foothold. The last person left standing wins the duel and will remain on Redemption Island. As the duel begins, Sash is out relatively quickly, but Wendy's determination comes through and she puts up a stronger fight than expected. "I thought she'd be out by now," Benry admits. But not long after, the pain becomes too much and Wendy drops out of the duel. With this, Benry wins his fourth consecutive duel and remains in the game once again. "I played a superior game intellectually and strategically," Sash brags in his final confessional. "I had a loyal army on La Flor. You know, I was taken out by the idol, but...I still outwitted a lot of people." One at a time, Sash and Wendy burn their buffs in the fire and leave the game. "Seeing Sash take that little walk of shame was definitely one of the more satisfying moments I've had in seventeen days," Benry shares. "Part of my work is done, but...I'm gonna stop in this game until I'm sitting in the Final Three and Jeff's handing me a check for a million dollars."

Espada Tribe ("Older Tribe") - Day 17

Back at Espada, Jill, Tyrone, and Jimmy T. sit around talking about the lack of food. "Did we check for eggs?" Jill brings up. "I mean, I wouldn't be opposed to frying an egg for just the three of us," Jill suggests. In his confessional, Jimmy T. emphasizes that the tribe is starving. "Marty and Jane were away at the duel, so we thought about maybe sneaking in a meal if they left an egg for us, but...we checked the coop, man, and no eggs," he continues. Jill is puzzled at why there are no eggs again. "They're punishing us," Jimmy T. tells her. Jimmy T. then continues his confessional: "I tell ya, those chickens are ticked that we voted Wendy off and if they're not gonna give us any eggs, it's gonna be about time to wring those chickens' necks." Jill tells her tribemates that she's going to go look for crabs or snails - "whatever I can find," she says. In a separate confessional, Jimmy T. says, "There's not too much goin' on today. Marty and Jane are at the duel, so...I happened to be walkin' near the treemail and had to use the men's room; uh, started diggin' a little hole cause that's what you have to do on Survivor and whaddayou know it? I happened to find the hidden Immunity Idol." "What have we here?" Jimmy T. asks confusedly, as he picks up the wrapped idol. Jimmy T. is astonished at his happenstance discovery. "This is a game-changer right here," he says aloud. "So now I gotta figure out how I want to use it, uh, for the tribe," he finishes.

La Flor Tribe ("Younger Tribe") - Day 17

At La Flor, Shannon and Brenda return to camp and fill their tribemates in that Benry won the duel again and Sash and Wendy are out of the game. "That old lady, she's gone too," Shannon puts it. NaOnka immediately becomes emotional again. "With Sash getting voted off and losing at Redemption, I got to see kinda what some of the people I aligned with are really made of," Shannon tells the camera. "I mean, in my opinion, it was good to shake them up. I'm obviously not gonna cry about it. You know, I've been married for 11 years and...one thing I can't deal with is a woman being hysterical <NaOnka is shown crying in the shelter again>, so...once I saw that, I knew it was time to get out of camp and go get wood or something."

Away from the main camp, Alina and Shannon gather firewood together. "This drama with Na; like, give me a break," Shannon complains. "That's all she's good for [is drama]," Alina agrees. "That was like a <censored> funeral," Shannon rants. "It's like the dude <censored> died." "And this is exactly why we should vote her off," Alina brings up. "I mean, I do have respect for Alina," Shannon continues in a separate confessional. "At least she busts her ass. NaOnka's having another freakin' meltdown like a two year-old. Like, get over yourself and stop crying. This tribe is a bunch of kids," Shannon vents to the camera. "I mean, they're lazy; they don't know nothing. And...I belong on the older tribe, so...I don't know what I'd do if we gotta go back to Tribal Council, but I'm probably not voting Alina off."

Reward/Immunity Challenge - Jump Shot

At the "Jump Shot" Reward/Immunity Challenge, the castaways play for a Nicaraguan farm experience which includes horseback riding and a home-cooked lunch. One member of each tribe will be the defender standing on a perch in the water while one at a time, members of the other tribe leap off a platform into the water and attempt to throw a ball past the defender and into the net. The first tribe to get five balls in the net wins. It is another close battle between the tribes, but La Flor ends up victorious, sending the older Espada tribe back to Tribal Council. "Espada lost, but...Jill's had a target on her back for a couple Tribal Councils and finally, I'm gonna get me my shot gun and <makes a shooting sound and action>," Jane bitterly tells the camera. "She's goin' home."

La Flor Tribe ("Younger Tribe") - Day 18

La Flor begins their farm reward with a horseback ride through the beautiful Nicaraguan countryside. "It was a little bit of a ride," Alina narrates the beginning of the Reward, "but...that was just part of the fun of it, getting to see everything along the way in Nicaragua that we had never seen before." "This is so cool," Alina says along the horseback ride. NaOnka then talks about her first experience ever riding a horse, but saying that she would have given up the Reward to go to Tribal Council and vote Alina out. As they arrive at the farm, La Flor is served their lunch, which includes milk, cheese, and other foods and fruits prepared freshly on the farm. "They sat us down for lunch and after not really seein' food for 18 days, I mean, I would've taken that meal over sex with my wife in a heartbeat," Shannon tells the camera. "This is awesome, man," Fabio says with delight, as the tribe feasts. In her confessional, Kelly B. narrates a few of the food items: "We had fresh milk that we were able to milk ourselves from the cows; we had watermelon and cantaloupe; um, these awesome tortillas. It was amazing." "How good is food?" Alina laughs. They are so happy they won the reward and are able to share it together. "I definitely think that the La Flor tribe is different without Sash here," Alina says in her confessional. "We were able to really enjoy the Reward more than we would have if he was still in our tribe, but...NaOnka's just bad energy." NaOnka complains that her stomach hurts, before Alina continues her confessional: "I think that there are cracks for sure in the alliance, so...I mean, I'm hoping that me, Kelly B., Shannon, and Fabio can vote Na out."

Espada Tribe ("Older Tribe") - Day 18

Back at camp, the tribe (minus Tyrone) discusses eating one of the chickens and decides it is time to do so. As they prepare to kill the chicken, Tyrone asks what they're doing and Marty tells him everyone wants to eat a chicken. "I think we should wait 'til after," Tyrone then expresses. "You mean after? Like, after Tribal Council?" Jill asks for clarification. "Yeah," Tyrone tells her. In her confessional, Jill recaps that Espada lost the challenge for both Reward and Immunity. "So everybody decided that we were gonna cook one of the chickens because we're all starving and we want to at least enjoy some kind of food reward while La Flor's eating cheese and tortillas and God knows what else, and Tyrone all of a sudden wants to wait until after Tribal Council," she narrates. "My opinion is, we've waited all this time, so what's the difference between eating it now and waiting a couple hours?" Tyrone asks. "You tell me; what's the difference?" Jill questions him. "The difference is that if we eat it now we're sharing with one extra person," Tyrone explains. He then continues that after Tribal Council, there will be more for the four remaining. "Tyrone's looking out for Tyrone," Jimmy T. tells the camera. "You know, he wanted to have a bigger portion of the chicken for himself and it does make me question a little whether or not he's gonna be a team player after the merge." Jill says to Tyrone that all five of the Espada members left won the chickens and should get to enjoy them. In his confessional, Marty reflects on the heated discussion. "Tyrone just took a stand and completely went against the wishes of the tribe," Marty begins. "You know, this is the time when you don't want to ruffle feathers if you're playing smart, which clearly Tyrone isn't or else he would have said 'Let's just eat the chicken.' Now, because of that, he may not get to have the chicken at all."

Later on, Jimmy T. and Marty weigh their options for the upcoming vote: "The more I think about it, voting off Tyrone is not a bad idea," Jimmy T. tells him. "He's super paranoid right now and he just magnified the target on his back 100x," Jimmy T. comments. "Certainly, I would say I've emerged as a bit of a leader, not in terms of the camp, but as far as who we vote off," Marty shares in his confessional. "I have a great relationship with Jimmy T., and the tribe is small enough that with our two votes, we could swing it and take out Tyrone if we really wanted to." Marty and Jimmy T. continue to consider why they would want Tyrone out. "We're gettin' close to a merge and that guy could dominate the physical challenges,” Jimmy T. proposes. “I know; I know,” Marty agrees. “But the question is, can we trust Jill?” Immediately, the camera cuts to a conversation between Marty, Jimmy T., and Jill, in which the men bring up possibly voting for Tyrone and keeping Jill. Jimmy T. asks her if she would be loyal after the merge. “I’m always gonna have some reservations about Jane,” Jill expresses, but she says that she would be loyal to Marty and Jimmy T. if they keep her around. “I mean, you’re tellin’ us all the right things,” Jimmy T. tells her. In her confessional, Jill then summarizes that Marty and Jimmy T. approached her and are thinking about voting for Tyrone so she stands at least a 50/50 chance and “I’m hoping that Tyrone will be out next.”

Just before Tribal Council, the alliance of Jimmy T., Jane, Marty, and Tyrone meets one last time. Tyrone briefly mentions the disagreement over the chickens, but says “No matter what, we all stick together. That was the plan; uh, nobody’s breaking.” Unbeknownst to Tyrone, however, Jimmy T. reveals that he keeps going back-and-forth between Tyrone and Jill. “There’s definitely reasons to get rid of Tyrone and there’s reasons to keep him,” he explains to the camera, “but...Jill, I mean, she’s no slouch either. She’s proven that in the challenges as well, so...I could vote either way.” As they grab their torches, Tyrone questions Jane about the vote one more time and Jane insists that she is voting for Jill. “Like every Tribal Council, it’s Jill or somebody,” Tyrone tells the camera. “After seeing my name come up from Wendy and havin’ you know, the disagreement today, I’m definitely worried I might be the somebody. Usually when somebody get a vote, it’s like ‘Hey, what about T.D.?’ so...I mean, I’m definitely not going in feeling invincible; I’ve got my bags packed, but at the same time, I still feel confident enough it’s gonna be Jill.”

Tribal Council #8 - Espada Tribe (“Older Tribe”)

At Tribal Council, Jeff asks what the reaction was when the tribe got back to camp and Marty informs him that there was a disagreement involving the whole tribe “but it seemed like it was more so Jill and Tyrone,” he says. Jill explains her side, stating that everyone else was in agreement to eat the chicken and she felt Tyrone was being selfish by wanting to wait until after Tribal Council to eat. “I personally felt as if he wanted to wait until I was voted out,” she accuses. Tyrone immediately denies the accusation. “My argument was that whoever we vote out tonight should be enough of a team player <Jimmy T. turns his head> to go without so that the other four can get a bigger meal,” Tyrone explains. “So you’re saying that you felt it was selfish, when in fact, it was the opposite.” Jill then asks Tyrone if, hypothetically, he was voted out would he be okay with that, and Tyrone tells her yes. “Jill says ‘Okay.’”

Jeff brings up Redemption Island and the fact that Benry has won four consecutive duels before asking Tyrone if he thinks he could beat Benry. “I think I could, but I’d rather not have to prove it,” Tyrone answers. Jeff then asks Marty if he agrees with Tyrone, and Marty says that even though the tribe has some strong players, Tyrone is clearly in a league of his own when it comes to physical challenges. “Tyrone, on one hand, he’s paying you a compliment,” Jeff points out. “On the other hand, he just pointed to you as a threat..." Tyrone responds that he doesn't think it comes as a surprise to anyone that he could dominate in the physical challenges, "but...people feeling threatened or intimidated, that's on them. You know, I'm also in his alliance, so I don't see where that's hurting him in the game," Tyrone then adds. "Jane, could you see how that hurts you later in the game?" Jeff poses. "I could see where it hurts me because I want to win individual Immunity," Jane answers, "but...my vote since the first or second Tribal Council has been Jill, so...tonight I'm stickin' with my alliance." Jeff asks her who her alliance is, and Jane names Marty, Jimmy T., and Tyrone. Naturally, Jeff turns back to Jill. Finally, Jill says that she has come to expect votes from Jane but she hopes that other people in the tribe will look at the bigger picture and see how she can be valuable to the tribe post-merge. With this, the Espada members cast their votes.

Jeff then tallies the votes and reveals them one at a time to the tribe:

JILL.

TYRONE.

JILL.

TYRONE.

"Two votes Tyrone; two votes Jill," Jeff recaps. "One vote left."

"Eighth person voted out of Survivor: Nicaragua..."

TYRONE.

In the end, Tyrone Davis is voted out of the Espada tribe in a 3-2 decision. He will face off against Benry on Redemption Island.

Episode 8 - Sitting in the Hot Seat

At Espada, Jane declares war on her alliance for keeping Jill in the game.

At La Flor, the tribe continues to fracture without their strategic leader, Sash, and one castaway attempts to seize control.

One castaway makes a mistake that could potentially end their entire game.

On Redemption Island, Tyrone and Benry compete in a duel to stay alive in the game. Which castaway will come out on top?
